This production is part of Butterflies of Hope and Remembrance, a year-long initiative throughout Southwest Florida comprised of special events and educational programs commemorating the 75th Anniversary of the end of WWII and the Liberation of the Nazi Concentration Camps. This play will be led by Bryce Alexander.

In a beautiful valley of the Czech Republic lies an ancient star-shaped fortress. In 1941, it became the infamous concentration camp Terezin. As people were tortured, piled onto trains to Auschwitz, and starvation and typhus swept through the camp, a quiet rebellion began: a secret art school for children, led by the prisoner and famed painter Freidl Dicker-Brandeis. Her young student Raja hid more than 4500 works of art from the Nazis. I Never Saw Another Butterfly is a story of hope, defiance, and the courage to create beauty in the midst of horror.
